The Work of Art Toolkit

WORKBOOK

Business Skills for Artists

SPRINGBOARD for the arts
Springboard for the Arts is an economic and community development organization for artists and by artists. Springboard for the Arts’ mission is to cultivate vibrant communities by connecting artists with the skills, information, and services they need to make a living and a life.

Springboard’s Work of Art: Business Skills for Artists is a set of professional development and entrepreneurship workshops that have been developed to be useful to artists practicing in all disciplines. Work of Art has been taught at arts organizations, libraries and colleges in over 80 communities in the Upper Midwest and beyond. In Minnesota, the Work of Art is supported by the Jerome Foundation, McKnight Foundation, Minnesota State Arts Board, Ecolab Foundation, Xcel Energy Foundation, and the Emily Hall Tremaine Foundation.

Many artists have contributed to the Work of Art curriculum and the creation of this toolkit, special thanks to Chris Osgood, Kathleen Richert, Anna Metcalf, Andy Sturdevant, Naomi Schliesman, Zararwar Mistry, Carl Atiya Swanson, Molly Chase, Laura Zabel, and the entire Springboard staff and board.

Primary toolkit author: Noah Keesecker. Design by Chad Nestor.

The Work of Art Toolkit is made possible with generous support of the Emily Hall Tremaine Foundation.

Carla wants to find a better balance between her day job and creative projects. She feels like she isn’t as involved in her practice and artistic community as much as she wants to be. She doesn’t really have a dedicated studio and doesn’t get out to as many shows as she used to. Carla wants to figure out how to set some goals and formulate tangible action steps to move her forward in her artistic career. She wants to find ways to make and exhibit her work but isn’t quite sure where to start or where she wants to end up. What does success look like? Carla needs some Career Planning advice.

Right this way, Carla!

DEFINE SUCCESS

1. Imagine a perfect day.

2. What is a successful day now?

3. Fill in the goals needed to get from B to D.

4. What is a successful day in the future?

Pick a timeline (e.g., 5, 10, 15 years): ______________
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Major Goal Categories</th>
<th>Instructions</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Artistic (e.g., develop new skills, techniques, get into shows, touring)</td>
<td>Transfer your goals from column C on page 1.2 to these categories.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Professional (e.g., better recordkeeping, networking, branding)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Personal (e.g., studio location, more time with family, get more sleep)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
PERSONAL ASSESSMENT

Look at your Artistic, Professional and Personal goals and map your Assets and Wants in these categories. Mark which of the categories you love (❤️) and which you don’t (❌). Don’t feel like you have to use every box.

THE TOMORROW LIST

The best way to gain momentum is to start moving. Now. Use this space to write down even the tiniest step toward your bigger goals. The only stipulation is that it must be something you will accomplish tomorrow. No excuses. Every great journey begins with a trip to the bathroom, right?

Examples

• Set up Google Alert for my name

• Email Johanna for coffee

• Take a 10 minute walk

• Hang a curtain to separate work space

• Open savings account

UNIT 2
TIME MANAGEMENT

You’ve got 24 hours in a day, just like everyone else. But are you using those hours to your best advantage? There is no shortage of demands on your artistic practice and it’s important to realize that good time management is a balance of all your priorities, not just your artistic pursuits—family, friends, your job, riding your bike or making videos of your cat, how can you do it all?

Discover analytical and tool-based approaches to manage your time. These tools will help you tackle hurdles related to efficiency, flexibility, and structure to help you reach your artistic goals.

Carla is a singer and actor doing the musical theater circuit and looking to do more professional level productions. She also has a job as a music director at a church with many evening and weekend commitments. In between all of this she is writing her first original musical. She really enjoys all of her professional commitments but can’t seem to find any extra time to grow beyond whatever is immediately in front of her. There just isn’t anymore time! Carla feels like she needs some practical tools for managing her time amid multiple commitments.

You can do it, Carla. We’ll show you how.

</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>RELEVANT: Determine if the goal is important by answering the following questions:</th>
</tr>

</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TIME-BOUND: Assign a start and stop time to the goal and/or task (a.k.a. Time Boxing)</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>For example: The Pomodoro Method ←Google it!</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Example S.M.A.R.T. Goal

- SIMPLE
  - Can the goal be broken down into smaller and smaller parts?
  - If yes: The goal might not be simple enough. Consider separate goal planning. If no: Continue.

- MEASURABLE
  - Assign a quantitative measure to the goal.
  - What aspect of the goal can a number be applied to?
  - 5 sketches, 150 words each.

- ACTION
  - Define the action(s) you will take to complete the goal.
  - Tip: Pretend as if you need to tell someone else to complete the goal. How would you describe the actions to take?
  - Explain the who, where, when, what, and why for each project in one sentence each.

- RELEVANT
  - Determine if the goal is important by answering the following questions:
    - Who cares? Who is being served by the outcome of the goal? Why now? Why does this goal have time priority right now (or later)?
    - There is a deadline for community arts project proposals coming up in two months. The application allows the submission of up to 3 ideas and it’s happening in my neighborhood.

- TIME-BOUND
  - Assign a start and stop time to the goal and/or task (a.k.a. Time Boxing)
  - For example: The Pomodoro Method ←Google it!
  - Allot 30 minutes per writing assignment and work for no more than 1 hour per session (note, you’ll have to schedule 3 work sessions, and that’s okay). 😊

If you aren’t happy with your Current Alpha-Beta, shade in your Goals for change.
THE VITAL FEW AND THE TRIVIAL MANY!
THE PARETO PRINCIPAL

Also known as the 80/20 Rule or the Vital Few and the Trivial Many, this principal states that 80 percent of an outcome is generated by 20 percent of the effort. Stated another way, there is a vital 20 percent of your effort that yields most of the impact. The other 80 percent are more trivial activities that only yield 20 percent of the impact.

- 80% of sales are generated by 20% of products
- 80% of revenue is from 20% of customers
- 80% of health care costs are generated by 20% of people
YOUR 24 HOUR BUDGET

168 hrs/wk
- 40 hrs for work
- 56 hrs for sleep (8 hrs/day)

= 72 hours left for everything else

Apply the Pareto Principle to find the “Vital Few” hours that generate the greatest yield.

20% of 72 hrs = 14.4 hrs/wk, or approximately 2 hours per day (daily amount varies depending on workweek schedule).

Exercise:
If you have completed the Time Audit, look at the tallies and calculate how much of your week you spent on your “Vital Art Time.”
- Did you spend more or less than the 20%?
- How much of your Vital Art Time happened during Alpha Time versus Beta Time?

= ____ hours left for everything else

Potential Scenarios

I didn’t get enough art time.
Solution: Look for lower priority events that occupied a suspicious amount of time, time gaps (lost time).

I got enough art time, but there wasn’t very much progress
Solution: Consider Alpha/Beta placement, identify any distractions or interruptions that occurred, write down your assumptions on why you think you weren’t productive and place the list in your workspace.

I nailed it.
Perfect balance of optimized Vital Art Time and maximized outcomes.

UNIT 3
PORTFOLIO KIT

Your portfolio is the core of your promotional material and professional calling card. Focus on the essential elements: sharpening your artist statement, tailoring your artistic resume, and curating and formatting your work samples.

Carla has managed to have some recent artistic successes but she has mostly stumbled into them through connections and word of mouth. She has a studio full of good work but the majority of it isn’t documented, her website is way out of date and the work samples are not current nor representative of where she is now. Her resume is a mixture of artistic accomplishments and administrative temp jobs. Last month she was introduced to a local gallery owner who was interested in seeing her portfolio but she wasn’t sure what or how to share it.

Dang, Carla, you need to get your portfolio together. ASAP.

WRITING AND EDITING

Take the strongest statements from the previous page and begin to look for threads and themes that you can weave together. Do you have favorite sentences that feel more accurate or personal? Are there statements that are more “sticky” or memorable? This is where you get to play around, edit, experiment and WRITE.

WORK SAMPLES

DOCUMENTATION

What kind of work do you make? Does it require photographs, video, audio recording, print, or in depth descriptions? Your goal in documentation should be the most thorough, accurate and literal record of the existence of your artwork. That documentation should also be of the highest professional quality.

SELF-CURATION IN THREE STEPS

① Folder Categories
Create folders that represent groupings or bodies of work.
Example: Time periods, materials, place, residency, subject matter, etc.

② Descriptions
Create a simple ranking system to grade your own work according to criteria.
  • Quality of work
  • Quality of documentation
  • Quality of how well it represents you now vs. historically

③ Filter
Re-group the works with the highest scores into a new folder labeled “Work Samples.”

Your best portfolio works live here
SECONDARY ITEMS

Additional types of supporting materials that may go in your Portfolio Kit:

Press: Articles written about you or your work where you are featured or mentioned

Reviews: Critical reviews of you or your work

Audience Reactions: Social media posts about your work, in person feedback, emails, letters

Quotes, Testimonials, Feedback: Similar to Audience Reactions but these are requested from individuals and participants

Process Photos: Any documentation of the art works before and after to show the context of the work. This may include context photos taken during an exhibit, performance, or activity.

What are some other types of documentation you might want to keep track of as you build your portfolio and career? List them here:

MARKETING

Define your product, discover your target audience, make decisions about how you sell your work, and identify a budget and strategy for your artistic business.

Carla has been playing gigs professionally for almost 10 years and has a loyal, but small, group of local fans. She’s trying to branch out to regional and national venues and audiences. She has one full-length album under her belt on vinyl with a digital download card, but can’t seem to figure out who her national audience is and how to reach them. She has an intuitive sense of how marketing works, but she wants a more strategic approach to growing her fan base.

Carla, it’s time to turn your marketing strategy up to eleven.

WHAT ARE YOU SELLING?

Solution or Experience

There are two basic types of things you can sell: GOODS or SERVICES. In both cases the thing you sell can either be a SOLUTION to a problem or it can be an EXPERIENCE. As artists, we are primarily in the business of selling EXPERIENCES. In the columns provided, list the products and/or the services you are selling.

DEFINING YOUR PRODUCT/SERVICE

Describe what you are selling now. For now, just stick to the facts; dimensions, color, duration, material, topic, etc.

What kind of products/services would you like to sell in the future? Describe those products.

Exercise

It’s important to remember that the majority of sustenance, profit, and success is the result of minute and discreet differentiation. Which is to say you don’t have to reinvent the wheel to succeed, you just have to make the wheel a teeny, tiny, little bit better.

List 10 ways your product or service is different that others similar to it in the marketplace.

NOTE: Any one of these items might not seem so special, but when you put them all together, that’s when your business starts to take on a look and feel of its own.
MARKETING MODELS

There are three types of models we can consider when constructing our marketing mix. The components of our mix are often referred to as the FOUR P’s:

Four P’s

- Product: What you are selling
- Promotion: How you communicate about the product
- Price: How much it costs
- Placement: Where it is sold

Traditional Business

- Product
- Promotion
- Price
- Placement

Artist #1

- Consumer
- Promotion
- Price
- Placement

Artist #2

- Product
- Promotion
- Price
- Placement

SIVA is a model that focuses more on the consumer experience. Use this model in conjunction with the 4P’s:

- Product = Solution to consumers problem
- Promotion = Information they need to understand
- Price = Value of the product to consumer
- Placement = Access to the product
AUDIENCE

There are two parts to identifying your audience: Consumer Profile and Target Market. Consumer Profile is a general description of the characteristics of the type of people you believe are already interested in your work. Target Market is a description of the type of people you want to be interested in your work.

We construct these two characters through Demographic and Psychographic information:

Demographics are the Quantifiable characteristics of a given population. Factors such as age, gender, ethnicity, mobility, location, employment, home ownership, income level (think of the US Census).

Psychographics are the Qualitative characteristics of a given population. Factors such as people’s behaviors, opinions, value systems, activities and habits. (This is commonly referred to as A.O.I. or Activities, Opinions, and Interests.)

Constructing your Consumer Profile: List the characteristics of your audience in the boxes below and, in the middle box, sketch out a drawing of who your consumer is.

What are some trends within your target market? ____________________________

Who are some of your competitors in your target market? ____________________________

What types of online communities can your target market be found or participating in? ____________________________

What are some new or closely related target marketing you might branch out to? ____________________________
HOW TO DO RESEARCH

The real heavy lifting comes when it’s time to dig for information about your target market. The question is HOW.

There are two types of sources: PRIMARY and SECONDARY.

Primary

- Collected by you (or your employees) through direct and personal interactions
  - Interviews
  - Surveys
  - Comments
  - Reviews
  - Focus Groups

Secondary

- Collected by others
  - Government Departments
    - Bureau of Labor Statistics
    - Census
  - Business Departments of Libraries
    - Encyclopedia of Associations
    - Business Information Sources
  - Nonprofit Arts Organization Research Studies
    - Americans for the Arts
    - Pew Foundation
  - Educational Institutional Research
    - Thesis
    - Peer Reviewed Research Studies

What are other methods in which you might be able to gather Demographic and Psychographic information about your audience?
BRANDING

Simply put, branding is an agreement between the values you ascribe to your product or business and the values that your audience identifies, experiences, and accepts.

Exercise

In the boxes below list words that describe:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Experience</th>
<th>Facts</th>
<th>Process</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The emotional experience people have with your product</td>
<td>Your sector of business</td>
<td>Specifically what you do and the actions you take</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Based on these descriptors, what are the things you want people to believe about your work and business?
MARKETING BUDGETS

No marketing plan is complete without a budget. How do you know how much to spend? In time? Money?

Find your budget as a percentage of gross sales (or projected gross sales).

Industry Averages:

• 5–7% for established businesses
• 20–30% for start-ups

Return On Investment (ROI) is a percentage that tells you how efficient your marketing is financially.

Example: Carla spends $150 on a print ad in her local art crawl catalog. As a result she sells two small pieces totaling $250. So, Carla’s ROI for that print ad is $250 minus $150, divided by $150 = 0.66 \times 100 = 66\%

That means for every $1 Carla spent on advertising she grossed $1.66 and netted 66 cents. Pretty good, Carla!

Current Clients v. New Clients

TIP: On average, for every $1 you spend to reach a current customer it takes $6 to reach a new customer. That makes the ROI for current customers much better. Even though you might want to focus on your current customers, it’s important to reach new audiences to convert them into current customers.

So about this Budget…

The most important thing is to set a discreet amount of money and/or time over a specific period so you can measure what works. We call this a “campaign.” When the campaign ends, measure the ROI, make adjustments and start another campaign. Over time you will learn to tailor your budget, tools, and timing to work best for you business.
MARKETING PLAN

Do your homework and then answer these questions. This is your Six Sentence Marketing Plan.

1. What is the outcome you want? (butts-in-seats, media coverage, number of sales, new leads, etc)

2. What are you selling?

3. Who is your consumer?

4. What is your brand?

5. What tools will you use to connect your product to your consumer?

6. What is your marketing budget and timeframe?
Carla just had her first book published through a small local press that doesn’t have a publicist. The book just came out, her budget is limited, and she’s not sure what kind of promotional tools will get her the most bang for her buck. She knows she’s going to have to send out her own press releases and set up her own reading events. She’s not really very comfortable with this work and she doesn’t have a strategy for how to approach it.

C’mon, Carla, you spent a lot of time writing that book, let’s make some people read it!
MARKETING RECAP

Product
What kind of product/activity are you offering?
Describe it in “consumer language” and by benefits.

Place
Is the location comfortable and attractive for the public?

Price
How much does it cost (money and time)?

People
Who is your customer? Insiders or outsiders?

Positioning/Branding
How have you defined yourself to your customers?
Core customers vs. New customers.

Promotion
What are you saying about yourself? The message?
What communication tactics are you using?
What is your budget?

In Unit 4 you created a 6-Sentence Marketing Plan (page 4.10).
Write that plan here.

PREPARING FOR PROMOTION

Behind every great promotion is a greater goal. Let’s start by identifying what you want the impact of your messaging to be. Are you creating goals and strategies about places, people, or both? Feel free to write down your own examples next to the following strategies.

Understanding Place Strategies

Enhance the Experience
- Bundling (dinner, discussions, discounts)
- Advance Bonus (early adopters, pre-screening)
- Advance Info (directions, parking, restaurants)

Improve Communication
- Clear, easy to navigate website
- Alternative media (industry publications, social media, podcasts, neighborhood newsletters)
- Diversify media outlets
- Centralize the commitment (have a consistent call-to-action, e.g., “Sign up now” “Buy tickets today!”)
- Depth of information (consider how much detail you need to provide)

Simplify Transactions
- Distribution system (PayPal, Eventbrite, Square, box office)
- Reservation/exchange/return policy
- Pricing structures
- Advance purchases

Understanding People Strategies

Good customer service will…

Create stronger relationships/allegiances
- Membership
- Stickers, t-shirts
- Punch cards for loyalty rewards

Instill a sense of community (belonging)
- Receptions
- Meet the artist

Create a sense of respect for the customer
- Prompt responses
- Hospitality
- Ask for their opinion and input

Enable the customer to get excited about the artist
- Shareable social media posts
- Background and process information
CRAFTING PERSUASIVE MESSAGING

Marketing v. Messaging

Marketing: What should I do to reach my objective? You answer this question with the P’s (Product, Place, Price, Promotion, etc.)

Messaging (Communications): WHAT will you say? To WHOM will you say it? HOW will you say it to maximize results?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>What</th>
<th>Who</th>
<th>How</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

COMMUNICATIONS STRATEGY

Building Blocks
Got a show coming up? Maybe a new exhibit? Or perhaps you’re just getting ready to launch a product.

Here are the essential building blocks of your strategy.

1. Objective

2. Target
   • Who are you trying to reach? Attitudes, demographics, psychographics, enriching characteristics.

3. Message
   • The Promise or the Point. It says why you are different or better. The message will likely not appear verbatim, but it is your motivating benefit.

4. Support
   • Facts, features and support.
   • The reasons why and the permission to believe.

5. Tone
   • Style, feelings, personality!

Bringing the Message to Life
After all of your careful research and planning, it is crucial that your messaging feel alive. There are all kinds of “alives” (serious, funny, cute, classy, etc.). The type of aliveness you put into your message should match your brand.

Attention: Getting your consumer to feel a need around your message. “Hey, this is important to me.”

Awareness: Get noticed. Build interest. Be relevant.

Attitude: How people feel about your product as a result of an experience with your message (ad, imagery, word of mouth, etc.).

Action: Buying tickets, subscribing to a newsletter, social media following.
MEDIA

Assembling your Media List:
Create a list of the media outlets in your community. e.g., Newspapers, magazines, radio, newsletters, listservs, etc.

Press Release: Required Information
• Who, what, when, where, why, how
• Get to the point… quickly
• Active tense
• Be grammatically correct
• Write for media needs, not your artist ego
• Include a contact email and phone number

How to Pitch a Story: 4 Points
• Is this a good time to talk?
• What’s the story in 20 seconds? (pick an angle and have a back-up)
• What’s in it for the publication/promoter? Why do they need this?
• If you aren’t interested, why not? Who is?

Write Your Practice Pitch Here:

Media Directory Resources
• Bacon’s
• Burrell’s
• Working Press of the Nation
• City PR Clubs
7 STEPS TO SUCCESSFUL PUBLICITY

1. Smart Media Strategy
   - Right information, right media, right time

2. Creative New Angles
   - Practice writing copy from multiple perspectives (Young & Hip, “Hi Mom,” Comforting, Aggressive, etc.)

3. Well-Written Presentation
   - Clear, concise, grammatically correct (obviously)
   - Inverted Pyramid \[\text{Google it!}\]
   - The Associated Press Stylebook

4. Compelling Visuals
   - High-quality and professional
   - Cut-lines; brief description, your event, key people
   - People like pictures of people, especially faces

5. Researched, Flexible Target List
   - Always address materials to a specific person, when possible
   - Be aware that personnel are constantly shifting
   - Be flexible to new angles not just old contacts
   - Media directories (Bacon’s, Burrell’s, Working Press of the Nation, City PR Clubs)

6. Fearless, Persistent Pitching
   - How to Pitch a Story (see page 5.6)

7. Service-Oriented
   - The media is your customer, shape your message to meet their needs.
   - Provide them with the best service possible (fast, punctual, formatted)
MEDIA MIX

Your media mix is a combination of Owned, Paid, and Earned media. First write down the mix of media you currently have and then, below, set a goal for how you would like to improve your mix.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Owned</th>

SPRINGBOARD PRESS ANNOUNCES A NEW BOOK BY CARLA ARTEMIS SHARING HER TRIALS, TIPS, AND TRUE STORIES OF MAKING A LIFE IN THE ARTS.

Carla Artemis writes about the path from dreamer to do-er. After many successful cross-disciplinary start-ups in dance, visual art, theater, music, and cooking, Carla tells how her creativity, insatiable curiosity, and an enterprising spirit empowered her to turn the artistic life she dreamed of into the life she lives.

Told through short essays, personal stories, conversations with collaborators, and irreverent illustrations, Carla dives headlong into issues of creativity, equity, community engagement, disappointment, heartbreak, and triumph, while weaving it all together with her indomitable spirit and sharp humor.

Meet Carla at her book launch and signing on January 17 at The Loft Literary Center, 1011 S. Washington Avenue, Minneapolis, MN 55415

About Carla Artemis
Carla Artemis has over 20 years experience in the arts and has been awarded fellowships and awards in every discipline she works in including music, dance, visual art, and cooking. Ms. Artemis calls St. Paul, Minnesota home and splits her time between her multidisciplinary works and writing. You can visit her online at Carla-artemis.com and on Twitter @CarlaArtemis

About Springboard Press
Springboard Press publishes the toolkits and stories of Springboard for the Arts, an economic development organization for artists, by artists. Their mission is to cultivate vibrant communities by connecting artists with the resources they need to make a living and a life.
Carla is a casual social media user. She has a lot of online personal connections like friends and family, but she isn’t quite clear on how best to use social media for her artistic career. What should she say? What social networks should she be using? How does she create a strategy for tapping into the global community?

What's It All About?

1. Finding Your Community and Market
2. Communicating With Your Sector
3. Building Social Capital

Platforms:
- Facebook
- Twitter
- LinkedIn
- Google+
- Pinterest
- Instagram
- Tumblr
- Flickr
- YouTube
LISTEN → CONTRIBUTE → CREATE

① LISTEN to conversations that are already happening in communities online.

② CONTRIBUTE your knowledge to conversations that are already happening.

③ CREATE new content and start new conversations.
FUNCTIONALITY

All social media platforms share a common set of functions and characteristics. If you understand these basic functions, you can more easily adapt to new tools and platforms as they come into the market.

Username: What is your username?

Follow: Who and why?

Tag: Discovering and connecting.

Dialogue Format: How do people communicate with each other?

Curation: Building your story.

Communities: Who uses which tools? Demo/Psychographics.

Keywords: Search.

Lists: Grouping.

Write down examples for each functionality that apply to your artistic discipline.

TO THE INTERNET!!!

(This space left blank for examples, wisdom, questions, and answers.)
CULTURE

Six ways to be a good citizen of the Internet. It is all about the attitude and behavior of being in a social space.

1. Transparency: Be open and honest about you and your business. Or at the very least prepare to be open and honest when people ask for it. And they will ask.

2. Customize: Change the message to fit the medium and context.

3. Great Stories: Content is key and nothing is more engaging than a good story, a great picture, and cats.

4. Authenticity: Be true to your values and aesthetics. Brand consistency can be a type of authenticity.

5. Left Field: Shake it up. Keep people on their toes. Variety is the spice of life and social media.

6. Radical Generosity: Social media works best when we share and give. As with socializing in person, everyone has more fun when we listen and share. Abundance rules.
SOCIAL MEDIA STRATEGY 101

1. What platforms will you utilize?
2. Practice the steps on page 6.3
3. Generate original content
4. Content Calendar: Making order out of ideas

Brand Grab

is the process of acquiring your username and url on a variety of social media platforms. For example, everywhere you go Springboard for the Arts is @Springboardarts. Consistency helps people find you and is good for branding.
EXERCISE #1: THE MAGAZINE MODEL

Generating content can be challenging. It’s good to be consistent, but people like variety. Pick up your favorite periodical and look at the table of contents. What types of content do they generate? Short form? Long form? Photo spreads? Industry jargon?

Types of Content
- Contributors
- Letter from the Editor
- Photos
- Fiction
- Vocab/Lingo
- Opinion
- Non-Fiction
- Comics
- Critique
- Profiles
- Advertisements

Now imagine that you are starting your own magazine! What categories or departments will you have? What does your business and art practice do that would be covered in your magazine? That’s your content!

EXERCISE #2: THE BUDDY SYSTEM

Starting out on a new platform can be daunting. Try the buddy system as a way to get comfortable communicating with your new social tools. Pick a friend (or two, or three) and make an agreement to only communicate with that friend using a specific social media tool. Nobody ever learned to swim in a library. Dive in!

1. Find a friend (or two or three).

2. Talk to him/her using the social media tool(s) of your choice.

3. Expand communication to less personal connections.
EXERCISE #3: CONTENT CALENDAR

The content calendar helps you organize the what, where, and when. It can be structured similar to a content promotions strategy.

Basic Elements

- What will you post? — Type of content (magazine model, page 6.8)
- When will you post it? — Schedule it (human vs. robot)
- Where will you post it? — Which tools will you use?
- Have fun, have fun, have fun — Have fun, have fun, have fun

Style & Voice

- Who are you?
- What is your brand?
- What are the characteristics of your style?
This analytical approach is not intended to be the only way to price your work. It is intended to illustrate the factors of product production that apply to all items in the market. Once you understand what each of the variables are you will be able to customize a formula for yourself that fits your business model.

Carla has been selling her woodwork at craft shows and art fairs for many years and has always relied on a little bit of intuition and a little bit of guess work when it comes to pricing. She's noticed that her colleagues and competitor’s prices vary widely but how they come to those prices is rather mysterious. Carla just wants to understand the basic components behind how to formulate sound, fair and competitive prices for her own work.

Time to make some money, Carla!
SOME DEFINITIONS

Cost of Production: The total cost of all the resources used to create a product.

Profit margin: The ratio of net profits compared to cost of production (or total sales).

Perceived Value: The worth ascribed to a product in the mind of a consumer without regard to actual cost of production.

Scalability: The ability or potential of a business to expand.

Gross Income: “All income from whatever source.” (26 U.S. Code § 61)

Net Income: All income left over after subtracting cost of goods sold and expenses from Gross Income.

Timeframe: How frequently you take a measurement of your business earnings (Annually/Quarterly/Monthly/Weekly).

Day Rate: A flat rate for one day of work.

Day Rates can help you make quick estimates for service oriented artists and businesses. It also makes pricing easier to understand for your clients when there are a variety of costs involved. Day rates are more common in certain industries than others, such as: photographers, make-up artists, graphic designers, models, and consulting services.
CALCULATING COST OF PRODUCTION (CoP)

| L | $/hr | Labor is calculated as a dollar amount per hour of work. This might be your time or an employees. |
| M | $    | Material is calculated as a dollar amount. It represents the direct cost of materials that end up in the finished product. |
| O | %    | Overhead Percentage is calculated as a percentage of your Labor + Materials. These are costs that do not physically end up in the finished product but are necessary in the process of producing the product. |
| P | %    | Profit Margin is calculated as a percentage of your Labor + Materials + Overhead. This profit ensures that your business can grow over time. |
| W | $    | Congratulations! You have arrived at your Wholesale Price. |

PROFITS MAY BE USED FOR:

- Competitive pricing
- Savings and bonuses
- Reinvesting in your business

for example:

- Labor: Hire an assistant
- Materials: Buy in bulk or when pricing is best
- Overhead: More efficient equipment
OVERHEAD

Overhead is expressed as a percentage of your costs of production during a specified timeframe. You calculate your overhead by dividing your indirect costs by your direct costs.

INDIRECT COST | is anything that doesn’t end up in the final product but is necessary for its production
Examples: Studio Rent, Utilities, Paint, Child Care

DIRECT COST | is anything that does end up in the final product and is necessary to production
---|---
Examples: Labor (yours or employees), Materials

\text{INDIRECT COSTS} \times 100 = \% \text{ Overhead}

\text{DIRECT COSTS}

HOMEWORK I:
Calculate overhead for the following timeframes.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>1 month</th>
<th>3 months</th>
<th>6 months</th>
<th>1 year</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

HOMEWORK II:
Pick two products and calculate the overhead for each. Different products may have different overhead costs.

Product #1: ___________________________
Indirect $: __________________________
Direct $: __________________________
\text{Indirect $} \times 100 = \% \text{ Overhead}

Product #2: ___________________________
Indirect $: __________________________
Direct $: __________________________
\text{Indirect $} \times 100 = \% \text{ Overhead}
RETAIL

If Someone Else Is Selling For You…

A retail outlet is its own business and has its own costs. Consider that a store selling your product for you has its own mix of LMOP.

- Labor: Employees
- Material: Buying wholesale products
- Overhead: Business lease, utilities, eCommerce, shipping, marketing
- Profit: Growing their business

Retailers often simplify the retail process by using a Retail Mark-Up or Keystoning.

Keystoning is the practice of increasing the price of the product by a factor of 2 (or more) in order to cover costs and make profit.

Retail Mark-up is expressed as a percentage multiplier of the wholesale cost. Retail markup allows a business to price products more competitively and chart product profitability.

If You Are Selling It Yourself…

If you sell your own work, you incur these costs of doing business.

What’s in Your Retail LMOP?

- L $/hr Your time at the booth, selling, filling orders, marketing
- M $ Office supplies, signage, packaging, displays
- O % Retail space, lease, marketing, travel
- P % Reinvestment in marketing, employees, website, work samples
ADAPTING THE FORMULA TO REAL SITUATIONS

Now that you are aware of the variables, it is your job to tweak your own equation to best meet your business goals. This might include maintaining consistent pricing, competitive pricing, or increasing profitability.

<td>Carla’s new line of refillable ceramic drafting pencils are taking off and in high demand. In order to increase her profitability she raised the prices in accordance with the perceived value but kept the original price in place for bulk orders.</td>

What are some other situations or adjustments you would make to your specific discipline or business?
PSYCHOLOGICAL ASPECTS OF PRICING

Price Point: Price point is the amount of money a customer is willing to pay within a certain range. It is influenced by demand, competition, and perceived value. The higher the price, the easier it is to increase the amount by smaller increments.

DIFFICULT TO EASY (0–40)

FIELD EXERCISE:
Make lists of products in the market that are:

- Similar to yours but different in price
  Why are the prices different? Cost of production? Materials? Quality?

- Different than yours but similar in price
  What is the budget and lifestyle of someone that buys items of a certain price points? How do you fit in?

- Similar to yours and similar in price
  What are the factors that differentiate your product from others that are similar in appearance and price?
PERCEIVED VALUE

Perceived Value is a person or group of people’s opinion of what they think a product’s value is.

Examples of Factors That May Impact Perceived Value

- Trendiness: Products that are connected to popular trends and group behavior can be perceived as more valuable.
- Scarcity: Limited edition, scarce, and exclusive items can have added value even if the scarcity is fabricated or not real.
- Nostalgia/Symbolism: Items that appeal to the consumer’s emotional attachments to meaningful moments (history, place, people, etc.) have higher value.
- Necessary Add-Ons: Products that complement and enhance an existing product may be priced at a premium.

What are some examples of perceived value inside and outside of the arts market?

If perceived value is the opinion of the consumer, then Added Value is the mechanism by which you create the perception of higher value. Added Value is any addition to a product or service that has a high perceived value-to-cost ratio. Some examples of added value elements are packaging, companion pieces, backstories, future discounts, loyalty points, membership or personalization.

Controlling the Deal

Now that you have a system for creating sound prices, you can begin to create incentive programs for customers. There are many ways to create deals for your customers that instill confidence in their purchase while supporting your bottom line. Here are a few:

- Seasonal discounts
- Coupons
- Loyalty points systems
- Discounts on volume purchases
- Referral programs

What are other examples of incentives you use or see in the arts sector or other sectors? Are there incentive programs that you use and like or that you don’t use for some reason?

UNIT 8
RECORDKEEPING

Learn how to track revenues and expenses, make informed projections, and gain a clearer understanding of your artistic business finances.

Carla won her first project grant! She feels good about the budget she submitted, but is unsure about how best to track her income and expenses over the course of her project. She has questions about taxes, paying her collaborators, and that wallet full of faded receipts from art material purchases, but she doesn’t have a system for organizing them. Carla is hoping to set up a process for keeping tabs on her finances.

Happy budgets make happy business!

ORGANIZE YOURSELF!

The first step to recordkeeping is choosing a system that works for you. Some people prefer to use physical records like filing cabinets and folders, while others choose digital solutions like bookkeeping software and mobile apps. Your system doesn’t have to be complex, but it should be organized to fit your business needs. Some basic tools may include a file folder system, bookkeeping software, spreadsheet software, online banking, a checkbook, a calendar, a ledger, or a registry.

Essential Record Categories

- Federal and state income tax returns, including all schedules that attach to them and the worksheets used to figure them
- W-2 forms, 1099 forms
- Canceled checks and/or bank statements and check registers
- Credit card statements
- Receipts for equipment purchases, home office expenses and materials purchases
- Paid bills, with date paid and check number recorded
- Records of charitable contributions
- Records of medical expenses
- Appointment calendar
- Other records of investments, stock purchases, records of interest paid on investments, and sales or transfers.

As an artist, it’s also important to keep a record of the work you create from an archival standpoint. When was it created? Where is it now? What materials or collaborators were involved? What is the copyright registration number?

An Art Registry is a tool to track your body of work. It’s also useful for keeping other aspects of your business in order such as resumes, contracts, associated contacts, documentation, and production materials.

RECORD RETENTION

What you keep and how long you keep it is governed by the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. It turns intentional document destruction into a process that must be carefully monitored. This table is a general guide to developing a record retention policy to fit your business.

PERMANENTLY
- Audit reports
- Capital stock & bond records
- Cash books
- Charts of accounts
- Checks (canceled for important payments, e.g., taxes, purchases of property)
- Contracts, mortgages, notes, & leases (still in effect)
- Correspondence (legal & important matters only)
- Deeds, mortgages, & bills of sale
- Depreciation schedules
- Financial statements (year-end, other optional)
- General/private ledgers, year-end trial balance
- Insurance records, current accident reports, claims, policies, etc
- Journals
- Minute books of directors, stockholders, bylaws, and charter
- Property appraisals by outside appraisers
- Property records
- Patents & related papers
- Retirement & pension records
- Tax returns & worksheets
- Trademark Registration and Copyrights
- Training manuals
- Union agreements

SEVEN YEARS
- Accident reports/claims (settled cases)
- Accounts payable ledgers & schedules
- Accounts receivable ledgers & schedules
- Checks (canceled)
- Contracts, mortgages, notes, & leases (expired)
- Expense analyses/expense distribution schedules
- Garnishments
- Inventories of products, materials, and supplies
- Invoices (to customers, from vendors)
- Notes receivable ledgers & schedules
- Option records (expired)
- Payroll records & summaries
- Personnel files (terminated)
- Plant cost ledgers
- Purchase orders (purchasing department copy)
- Scrap & salvage records (inventories, sales, etc.)
- Sales records
- Stocks & bonds certificates (canceled)
- Subsidiary ledgers
- Time books/cards
- Voucher register & schedules
- Vouchers for payments to vendors, employees, etc.
- Withholding tax statements

THREE YEARS
- Bank statements
- Employment applications
- Insurance policies (expired)
- Internal audit reports (longer retention periods may be desirable)
- Internal reports (miscellaneous)
- Petty cash vouchers
- Physical inventory tags
- Sales commission reports

TWO YEARS
- Bank reconciliations
- Correspondence (general)
- Correspondence (routine) with customers and/or vendors
- Duplicate deposit slips

ONE YEAR
- Purchase orders
- Receiving sheets
- Requisitions
- Stenographers’ notebooks
- Stockroom withdrawal forms

“The retention period is the number of years from the date the tax return was filed. All material presented is for general information only and should not be acted upon without professional assistance.” — Better Business Bureau, 2014 —
WHAT TO KEEP AND WHY

Beyond the minimum requirements, it’s good to have an idea of why we keep these records. Here are some of the uses that you might have for retention of your business documents over time.

FINANCIAL REPORTS

From a financial standpoint, your small business has two primary objectives: profitability and solvency. Two basic financial reports are used to measure your ability to do both and predict your ability to do both going forward.

Profitability means the ability to generate income that exceeds expenses over time and is reflected on an Income Statement. Solvency means the ability to pay debts as they become due, on a long-term and short-term basis, and is reflected on a Balance Sheet.

Together these two financial reports show a business’s Revenue, Expenses, Assets, and Liabilities. As this information is gathered, it can be used to make more informed projections and assumptions.

Financial reports can be run at any time and for any time period (e.g., monthly, quarterly, annually, etc.). It's best to track your finances on a monthly basis using a Monthly Cash Flow Statement. The Cash Flow Statement reflects the movement of cash into and out of a business or project. It is considered good if you have more money at the end of the period and bad if the balance of available cash decreases.

*Cost of Goods are the costs resulting from the production of your product, e.g., materials, storage, packaging, production related labor (but not your own labor).

For tax purposes, depreciation is the allowable deduction for the loss of an asset’s value due to age, wear, etc.
INCOME STATEMENT

The Income Statement (also called a Profit and Loss Statement) reflects how your business has performed over a specific period of time in terms of how much you have earned and how much you have spent. List all revenue coming into the business on the top half, and a subtotal of Gross Revenue or Gross Income midway down the page. The bottom half of the report lists the line items that are the liabilities or expenses of the business. After the expenses have been subtracted from the gross income, you have a number called Net Revenue or Net Income. You want this number (the bottom line) to be a positive number.

The Balance Sheet reflects the total value or the worth of the business. It captures financial data for a single point in time and is often described as a “financial snapshot” of your business. It gives a picture of what the business owns, which includes assets plus any equity. Companies often divide assets into current assets (usually cash) and fixed assets (things the business owns that could be sold for cash). Likewise, liabilities are divided into current liabilities (stuff that must be paid within one year) and long-term debt.

BUDGETING AND FORECASTING

A budget is nothing more than a plan for how to spend money over a specific period of time. So far we’ve looked at the tools necessary to track your business finances and the type of information you should be collecting. The next step is to take your financial information and put it into a step-by-step process. A budget enables you to determine where and how you spend money, get more out of the money you have, and make it easier to achieve the goals you’ve set.

There are 7 reasonably simple steps involved in putting together a budget:

1. Choose a system
2. Calculate your income
3. Calculate your expenses
4. Compare income and expenses
5. Identify your goals
6. Improve your situation
7. Monitor your progress

Let’s look at each of the steps in turn:

1. Choose a system: Determine how you will track the budgetary information. If paper and pencil works for you—great. You may use a simple spreadsheet or a finance software package such as Intuit’s Quicken, Microsoft Money, or QuickBooks. These tools guide you through the process and will crunch the numbers for you.

2. Calculate your income: Calculate and record the income you receive from all sources. Include gross salaries and wages, payments for freelance work, teaching, grants, fellowships, sales, royalties, consulting, etc. It is generally wise to be conservative with the calculations. Do not include income that you aren’t fairly certain you’ll be receiving. Monitoring your income over a longer period (for example, six months rather than one) will flatten out any jumps or dips that happen within a month, resulting in a more accurate estimate.

3. Calculate your expenses: This step may be more time-consuming than the previous one, but it’s also more important, because it’s the side of the equation that you probably have more control over. Expenses can be grouped into three basic categories:
   a) Fixed Expenses: Necessary expenses that have the same (fixed) monthly payments, whether you’re busy or not.
   b) Variable Expenses: Necessary expenses with payments that vary from one month to the next. These may be tied to how busy you are.
   c) Discretionary Expenses: Expenses that aren’t necessities.

Begin by estimating how much you spend monthly on each type of expense. Here are some common types of expenses, but feel free to modify this list to suit your specific circumstances.

<table>
<thead>

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Track your spending for a month or two. Try not to change your spending practices during this time. Track all expenses, no matter how small. To save time, you might want to use your monthly checking and cash or credit card statements. Be sure to itemize your cash purchases, rather than just listing “ATM withdrawal.” This is especially important if cash purchases comprise more than 5% of your customary expenses.

4. Compare income and expenses: Having completed the above steps, you should now be able to answer these questions:
   - How much money is coming in?
   - How much money is going out?
   - Where is it going?
   - Where am I spending too much money?

5. Identify your goals: Now that you have a clear snapshot of your finances, establish a budget and work towards meeting it. Identify the big-ticket investments or expenses that you will need to save for and start saving for them. (Don’t neglect to fund your IRA!)

6. Improve your situation: The whole purpose of detailing your budget is to find ways to improve your bottom line. Even if you accurately predicted where your money is going, you should still ask yourself whether those expenditures are worthwhile.

7. Monitor your progress: Make an appointment with yourself to evaluate your progress and modify your budget if needed.
Accounts Receivable are considered assets. They are money owed to the business for purchases made by customers, suppliers, and other vendors.

Notes Receivable are current assets if they are due within one year. Notes that cannot be collected on within one year are considered long-term assets.

Fixed Assets includes land, buildings, machinery, and vehicles that are used in connection with your business. Land is considered a fixed asset but, unlike other fixed assets, is not depreciated because land is considered an asset that never wears out. Buildings are categorized as fixed assets and are depreciated over time. Office equipment includes equipment such as copiers, fax machines, printers, and computers used in your business. Machinery represents machines and equipment used in your plant to produce your product. Examples of machinery might include lathes, conveyor belts, or a printing press. Vehicles includes any vehicles used in your business.

Total Fixed Assets are the total dollar value of all fixed assets in your business, less any accumulated depreciation.

Total Assets are the total dollar value of both the short-term and long-term assets of your business.

Liabilities and Owners’ Equity includes all debts and obligations owed by the business to outside creditors, vendors, or banks that are payable within one year, plus the owners’ equity.

Accounts Payable includes all short-term obligations owed by your business to creditors, suppliers, and other vendors. Accounts payable can also include supplies and materials acquired on credit.

Notes Payable is money owed on a short-term collection cycle of one year or less, e.g., bank notes, mortgage obligations, or vehicle payments.

Mortgage Note Payable is the balance of a mortgage that extends out beyond the current year. For example, if you have paid off three years of a 15-year mortgage, the remaining eleven years, not counting the current year, are considered long-term debt.

Owners’ Equity, sometimes referred to as stockholders’ equity, is made up of the initial investment in the business as well as any retained earnings that are reinvested in the business.

Retained Earnings are earnings reinvested in the business.

Total Liabilities and Owners’ Equity comprises all debts and monies that are owed to outside creditors, vendors, or banks, and the remaining monies owed to shareholders (including retained earnings reinvested in the business).
UNIT 9
LEGAL CONSIDERATIONS

Obtain general information about your intellectual property, contract basics, and structuring your artistic business.

Carla and her friends started an informal dance troupe and have started putting their videos online. Now they’ve been invited to perform as part of a dance performance and even have a contract to sign. The problem is that they’re not quite sure who owns what, whether their music is legit, or how to split the artist fees. They think it might be time to meet with an attorney but want to get a general understanding of their legal options before they invest in a lawyer.

Do you know how much intellectual property you own? Let’s find out!

COPYRIGHTS: PROTECTING YOUR INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

What is a copyright?

Copyrights are the rights you enjoy as the author of original material. To be copyright-able, a work must contain some minimum amount of original authorship. Copyrights attach to a creation as soon as you have fixed it in tangible form, e.g. a painting, a musical score, choreographic notation, a sound recording, etc. Ideas, processes and concepts cannot be copyrighted, nor can names, titles, or some other short phrases. The copyright insures that only the owner of the copyright may copy, print, or distribute the work; publicly perform or create derivative works. Copyrights are unique in that they are divisible — copyright owners may grant others the use of their work for some purposes distinct from other purposes, and charge a fee for the use (which is called licensing).

Forms and instructions may be downloaded from the United States Copyright Office’s website www.copyright.gov. The site is very user friendly and informative. (Don’t forget to print the forms double-sided if you’re going to send in physical copies.) Here are some copyright categories:

- Pictorial or graphic works (Form VA)
- Sculptural works (Form VA)
- Architectural works (Form VA)
- Musical compositions and accompanying words (Form PA)
- Sound recordings (Form SR)
- Dramatic works (including accompanying music) (Form PA)
- Choreographic works (Form PA)
- Film and other audiovisual works (Form PA)
- Literary works (Form TX)

Do I need to place the “c-in-a-circle” symbol, the date, and my name on the work to insure that it is copyrighted? (Example: © 2007 Jane Doe.)

A: No, but it’s OK if you want to and doesn’t hurt.

Must I register my copyright?

A: No, but it’s a good idea.

Does it cost anything?

A: Yes, $35 online.

What if I choose not to register my copyright?

A: It might make it harder and more expensive to defend your intellectual property.
What is a patent?
Patents protect ideas, such as new designs, tools, machines or production processes. They are expensive and must meet strict scrutiny in regard to eligible subject matter, utility, novelty, and non-obviousness, among other things. Patents exclude others from using your invention for 20 years, though they may be sold or licensed to others for use.

What is a trademark or service mark?
The primary purpose of a trademark or service mark is to protect consumers from confusion. A mark allows customers to connect a product with a source (either commercial or artistic) and to lend assurance as to a certain quality. Examples include signatures on paintings, chops on pottery or sculpture, or distinctive packaging. The marks must be used repeatedly and consistently—use it or lose it.

What is a trade secret?
Trade secret law may provide protection for significant information that doesn’t qualify for copyright or patent protection. Trade secrets may be kept indefinitely. Examples include techniques such as new methods of printing, etching, or glazing. (The method cannot be easily discoverable.) Trade secret law may also protect customer lists and other confidential business materials.

What are moral rights?
The Visual Artists Rights Act (VARA) is an amendment to the Copyright Act; it established Moral Rights for artists. Copyrights are considered Property Rights; Moral Rights are described as ‘rights of personality.’ Its limitation is the narrowness with which it describes ‘art’ as limited to the traditional “fine arts.” VARA gives artists the right to claim authorship of their work even if they have sold it and the copyrights to the work; it prevents others from attaching the artist’s name to other work, and prevents use of his or her name on mutilated or distorted versions of their own work. In addition the artist can prevent the mutilation or distortion of their work (although the artist will bear a burden of proof that the work is ‘of recognized stature’). Moral Rights cannot be transferred—when the artist dies, the rights go away. They can, however, be waived in writing. There are specific provisions for art included in building structures: artists or building owners should register the work with the Visual Arts Registry, Library of Congress (there is no specific form for this) citing the name and address of the artist and describing the work, including photographs documenting the work. This is to help building owners locate and notify artists.

Other protections for artists include provisions against Unfair Competition, Right to Privacy, Protection Against Defamation, and Right to Publicity claims. These apply even to artists whose work is not covered by VARA.

A typical Unfair Competition claim is against someone whose work bears such a striking resemblance to the plaintiff’s work that the public cannot discern the difference.

The Right to Privacy is the right to be free of unwanted or unnecessary publicity, especially if it presents the artist in a bad light to the public. It is a personal right and cannot be transferred to heirs. This is also the section of law that prohibits use “for advertising purposes, or for the purposes of trade, the name, portrait or picture of any living person without having first obtained the written consent of such person.” (Get signed model releases!) It does not apply to Public Figures.

Defamation is an attack on the reputation of another person. It includes both libel and slander. (Of course, the alleged defamatory material must be false.)

Right to Publicity states that if you are a public figure, you have the right to financial benefit from your fame and stature. (Not too useful if you aren’t famous—but we have faith in you!)
What is work for hire?
A work-for-hire is created in one of two ways:
1. Work created by an employee within the scope of their employment (e.g., a graphic designer, cartographer, or newspaper reporter).
2. Work created by special order or commission in which the parties expressly agree in advance, and in a signed, written document that the works are made for hire. Generally these are made as part of a collective work (a motion picture, compilation, instructional text, atlas, etc.). This transfers all rights to the work to the hiring party, who now own the rights as if they were the ‘author’ and can copy distribute, modify, or even re-sell the work. Your agreement must include the words “work made for hire.”

What is a derivative work?
The Copyright Act defines it as “a work based upon one or more preexisting works.” For example: translations, musical arrangements, dramatizations, fictionalizations, motion picture versions, and sound recordings.

What is fair use?
The Fair Use doctrine says that you or I may use another person’s copyrighted work as an example or illustration in political or educational discussions.

You may have heard someone say, “Well, if you change it 20%, then you're okay,” or some variable percentage. Wrong! While not quantified in the law, factors that influence decisions stem from the kind of work under consideration. What is its purpose? How substantial are any changes? What is the effect on marketability?

Judgments are usually made on the basis of several continuums:

Factual Information ↔ Creative Invention
Educational Purpose ↔ Commercial Use

For example: people run into questions when using quotations—is it plagiarism or copyright infringement? You remedy plagiarism claims by giving credit; you remedy copyright infringement claims by getting permission.

Basically, it comes down to this—if you did not create the work, you do not own it, so you ought to find out who does, and get their permission.

What does it mean when something is in the public domain?
There are variations and subsets to copyrights, which include, among others, the following:

• First Rights
• One-time Rights
• Reprint Rights
• Creative Commons
• Rights in Common
• Mechanical Rights
THE ELEMENTS AND IMPORTANCE OF CONTRACTS

Three elements are needed for a legal and enforceable contract:
- An offer
- Acceptance of the offer
- The exchange of something of value—consideration

Remember the adage: A verbal contract isn’t worth the paper it’s written on. Put your agreement in writing, bearing in mind the following:
- A contract is between two or more competent people
- A contract represents a meeting of the minds—you must agree on the particulars
- There must be obligation on both sides
- An offer must include what the consideration will be

While we recommend that all your agreements be in writing, there are several agreements that must be in writing:
- If the agreement spans more than a calendar year
- For sales of goods over $500 (goods include things that you are in business to sell, i.e. art, if you are an artist)
- Sales of personal property over $5,000

There are standard provisions and additional elements (or clauses) that help to define the agreement between the parties. Frequently standardized language appears at the end of contracts and is referred to as “boilerplate language.” Read it. It may include things that are not in your best interest.

Here are some elements to consider including in the contracts you develop:
- Scope of the work: Complete description of the work to be done.
- Time: Complete description of when the work will be done, including a schedule if it is to be done in stages.
- Payment: How and when will you be paid? May include deposits, progress payments, kill fees (what, if anything, will be paid out if the contract is cancelled?).
- Who owns the work? How will you receive credit?
- Performance Clauses: What if one party or the other doesn’t do what it said it would do?
- Who will have control over the artistic decisions?
- Cancellation: How can this agreement be terminated or cancelled?
- How can this agreement be changed?
- Amendments: How will changes be negotiated?
- Who covers insurance and/or delivery costs?
- “Time is of the essence” is serious legal language.
- Releases and Indemnifications (hold harmless clauses).
- Arbitration: How will disputes be handled and in which jurisdiction?

Why insist on a written contract? Remember that it is always good to plan the divorce while you’re still in love (it’s usually more equitable) and hope you never have to implement those plans.
Contracts and Letters of Agreement govern—or ought to govern—certain of our artistic endeavors such as, but not limited to, the following:

- Leasing studio or performance venues (Lease)
- Sale of artwork (Bill of Sale)
- Commissioning of an artwork, composition, or performance (Commission Agreement)
- Collaboration with others (Collaboration Agreement)
- Author-Agent relationships (Author-Agent Agreement)
- Gallery representation (Artist-Gallery Agreement)
- Placing work for sale in a gallery (Consignment Agreement)
- Licensing artwork (Licensing Agreement)
- Royalty rights
- Exhibition loan
- Teaching or lecturing (Contract)
- Working for—or hiring—others (Independent Contractors Agreement)

Commissioned work agreements should…

- Provide for a balancing of interests between artistic freedom and buyer satisfaction
- Provide for frequent opportunities for consultation between the artist and purchaser
- Provide for interim payments to the artist
- Include a completion and delivery date
- Address ownership of intellectual property rights (e.g. reproduction of the work) and the purchaser’s obligations regarding maintaining the work

Art rental agreements should…

- Delineate between straight rental versus rent-to-own
- Address cost of shipping and insurance of work
- Place appropriate limitations on the renter’s use and location of the work
- Address the artist’s right of access to the work
- Create a security interest in the work
- Include a provision for payment of the artist’s attorney fees in case of breach

Discussion Notes
Consignment agreements should include…

• A statement as to whether the agreement is for a limited agency (right to sell the particular work) or an exclusive agency (right to represent all of the artist’s work)
• Creation of a trust account for the money from the sale of the artist’s work(s)
• Time period within which money from sales must be remitted to the artist
• A clear statement that the arrangement is a consignment, so that creditors of the agent or gallery cannot make claims against the artist’s work(s) or the funds held in trust for the artist
• A prohibition against assignment of the agreement by the gallery or agent
• A listing of any exempted works or sales (if an exclusive agency is created)
• Description of the gallery’s or agent’s obligations relating to the sale of the work(s)
• Guaranteed exhibition dates and distribution of related fees
• Artistic control of exhibits, publicity, advertising, etc.
• Time period and conditions within which the work(s) must be returned to the artist
• Insurance, rental rates, reproduction restrictions, lecture fees, etc.
• Gallery’s or agent’s commission, e.g. straight percentage, sliding scale, sale price less materials, commission rate against rental income (and whether the artist may specify a sale price in advance)

Many states have passed laws providing that any fine art left with a gallery or art dealer is held on consignment in trust for the artist.

SAMPLE CEASE AND DESIST LETTER TEMPLATE

Dear [name],

I recently have been made aware that you [have used/are using] my copyrighted work entitled [name of work] without my permission. I first created [name of work] in [year of publication] and I have reserved all rights in it.

Your work entitled [name of infringing work] [is essentially identical to/incorporates without my permission] my copyrighted work. Neither have I granted you permission to use, photo copy, electronically copy, or otherwise distribute my work. You have willfully infringed on my rights under 17 U.S.C. Section 101 et seq. and could be liable for actual or statutory damages up to $150,000.

Please immediately cease and desist from using, copying, electronically copying, performing, displaying or otherwise distributing [name of work] and any and all works derived from [name of work]. Immediately return to me or destroy all copies in your possession of [name of work] and any and all works derived from it. Finally, desist from this or any other infringement of my rights in the future.

If I have not received written confirmation from you by [insert a date that is 10–14 days into the future here], indicating that you have complied with these requirements, I will take further action against you.

Sincerely,

HOW DO I FIND A LAWYER AND LEGAL RESOURCES IN MY STATE?

• Contact your state’s Volunteer Lawyers for the Arts organization
• Find out what legal resources your local Small Business Association has • Investigate what small business centers and resources are available through your local library
• Ask your artist friends where they have found legal resources and connections.

Learn how to think creatively about diversifying your funding streams by exploring different models for generating value, resources, and revenue.

After years of building her portfolio and networks, Carla is ready to launch her own community arts program. She’s got the idea, the plan, and the people, but is feeling a little lost when it comes to raising money to get things off the ground. She knows there are grants available and a few friends of hers have run crowdsourcing campaigns but she wants to get a better read on the landscape so she can raise the money without compromising her creative and community vision.

No need to break the bank, Carla. There are plenty of ways to fund your artwork.

Funding
www.springboardforthearts.org/woa
In the beginning there were gifts. Gift Economies in small, close-knit communities were based on sharing and an abundance of resources. If you had more than you needed, you gave it to your family, friends, and neighbors. As populations grew and travel became more prominent, two communities or cultures would come together to trade one good for another based on surplus and need. This was a Barter Economy, one where Carla could trade two bags of her extra homemade wool for Johanna’s extra garden produce and everyone would go home happy. These types of items are forms of Commodity Money and it worked great until two weeks later when Carla realized her bag of tomatoes had rotted. She started to feel a little like she got the short end of the stick by accepting something that wouldn’t last more than a week (canning had not yet been invented). So next time Carla bumped into Johanna and was offered more vegetables, Carla asked her what other items Johanna had for trade. Johanna said she had a nice chunk of copper she found in her field, a couple ceramic bowls, and some dried fruit candy she had made. Carla could see this was the way to go, so she took the copper and the dried fruit candy. As she was walking home she began to map out in her mind all the things she had that represented something valuable but were also useable; she came up with this list which she separated into things that last a long time and things that don’t.

After a while, Carla began to notice that sometimes Johanna didn’t have anything she needed and she also didn’t have anything that would last very long. So Carla came up with an idea to make it a little easier to store value and have something that she could trade for just about anything. She went to her local leaders and suggested that they use something valuable like her stockpile of papyrus and make little token certificates out of it that people could trade for things they needed when they needed them. The leaders liked this idea of Representative Money and went ahead with the idea. (Carla was very happy to have all her extra papyrus turned into this new currency that she could use to buy anything she wanted!) Carla now had a pretty sizeable pile of this money and at the same time was happy to have completed her first community project. When the leaders asked if they could put her image on the money she thanked them but felt that the money wasn’t about her; it was about helping her community thrive. So, instead, she asked if they would put her favorite animal on the money in her place: the seahorse.

The End.

Later in this unit, you’ll get to make your own instant economy using Seahorse Bucks.

PROFITS FROM SALES

Everytime you make a sale of a good or service, save a percentage of your profits for funding the next project or stage of your business.

GRANTS

Philanthropic funding aimed at providing financial resources in exchange for the improvement of social good.

PROS
- No repayment/interest
- Increases social capital
- Sudden financial boost

CONS
- Time investment to research and apply
- Lengthy funding cycles
- Highly competitive, unpredictable

DONATIONS

Philanthropic funding made by individuals to support projects, causes, and people. May or may not be tax deductible.

PROS
- No repayment
- Strengthens audience engagement
- Active and continuous visibility

CONS
- Time and capacity
- Requires transactional infrastructure
- Donor fatigue

LOANS

Money provided by a financial institution with the expectation of full repayment plus interest over a specified period of time.

PROS
- Accessible
- Builds credit
- Variety of lending options

CONS
- Interest rates
- Financial risk of backing with collateral
- Application process can be long and tedious

INVESTING

Profits made within a market exchange through the buying and selling of securities, commodities, and currency.

PROS
- Higher returns
- Abundant choices and customization
- High liquidity

CONS
- Volatile and unpredictable
- Time-consuming
- Lower-risk requires long term investment

SPONSORSHIP/ADVERTISING

Granting audience exposure and visibility to a third party business in exchange for money or resources.

PROS
- Audience development
- Strengthens partnerships
- Flexible and transaction based

CONS
- Time consuming
- Distracting
- Requires negotiation
NEW AND OLD-NEW OPTIONS

HYBRIDS

As communities and society have become more connected through technology, funding models are developing that allow for larger audiences, easier transactions, and greater awareness. This is allowing hybrid funding models to mix elements from traditional funding with newer models to produce options such as offering micro-lending, micro-donations, and subscription based crowdfunding.

Use this space to explore and discuss potential hybrid combinations by mixing together models from pages 10.3 and 10.4.

e.g., You could start a loan program that uses community currency in your neighborhood.

Discussion Notes
INSTACONOMY

How to Play

1. Cut out the three Seahorse Bucks from your workbook.
2. On each one, fill in your personal information: Name and Contact Info.
3. Add any Service, Experience, Product, Idea, Capital, etc. that you own.
4. When trading opens, talk to others and trade your Seahorse Bucks for Seahorse Bucks from others. Feel free to trade as many times as you want until you are happy with what you have or the trading period ends.
5. Trade!
INSTACONOMY
RESULTS & DISCUSSION

1 Write on each Seahorse Buck what it is worth to you.
2 What did it cost you to get this amount of value?
3 What else did you gain from Instaconomy?

TYPES OF GRANTS

Following are nine types of funding opportunities that may be available to you. Brainstorm with your group on what opportunities are available in your community.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>FELLOWSHIPS</th>
<th>Funding for exploration and building of your artistic practice or to have a more self-guided development period. Primarily merit based.</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>PROJECT ASSISTANCE GRANTS</td>
<td>Grants that have clearly defined parameters for supporting a specific project. Typically they have fixed timelines, budgets and include some aspect of working in partnership.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT GRANTS</td>
<td>Financial assistance to learn new skills related to aspects of your artistic practice. This could include business workshops, conferences, mentorship programs and more.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COMMUNITY ARTS GRANTS</td>
<td>Building projects with community partners such as arts education, arts access, public art, or neighborhood improvement plans.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“SUDDEN OPPORTUNITY” GRANTS</td>
<td>Grants that have a quicker turnaround. The amounts tend to be smaller and dedicated to very specific situations like emergencies or small community projects.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TRAVEL GRANTS</td>
<td>Funding to pay for travel related to research, professional development, and residencies.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PRIZES FROM COMPETITIONS</td>
<td>Awards given by an organization or individual through a competitive review process. These awards can include money, featured articles, opportunity to exhibit, or connections to influencers in your field.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>RESIDENCIES</td>
<td>Support to focus on making work outside of your normal routine. Residencies may include a living stipend, project support, or space (living or working) only. You can research opportunities through the Alliance of Artist Communities.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CHALLENGES AND CONTESTS</td>
<td>Many cities and foundations have idea contests, usually focused on new ways of addressing community challenges. Even though they may not be specifically looking for art ideas, creative thinking can often stand out in this format.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Think about grant opportunities that are local, regional, and national; general and discipline-specific; and arts and non-arts focused. Often your state or local arts agency and community foundations are a good place to start.
FINDING GRANTS AND PREPARING YOUR MATERIALS

Getting Organized

• Write down your artistic goals and objectives for the coming year.
• Self-curate your work into different groupings that show different strength and career trajectories. Review work sample tips in Unit 3.
• Always plan to document your work in the highest quality manner you can afford. It may be required for your final grant report but, even if it’s not, you’ll want the documentation for your portfolio and the next grant.
• Prepare an up-to-date, professional looking resume.
• Keep a grant calendar with deadlines and pre-deadlines.

Finding Opportunities

• Research, identify and apply for opportunities as a part of your ongoing routine. Set a schedule and set aside a small portion of time to look for opportunities.
• Pay particular attention to the review criteria of the specific grant you are applying for and always keep the mission and principles of the funder in mind.
• If a grantor offers a workshop, webinar or other information about their grant, make sure to attend. These sessions can be very useful.

Grant Search Resources

The sites below can help with your search. Often, Google, is a good way to start—try some simple searches like “artist fellowship, <your state>” or “grants for artists, Midwest.”

For Individuals:

Foundation Grants to Individuals Online
A service of the Foundation Center that offers information on funders that provide scholarships, fellowships, grants, and a wide range of financial support to individuals. This resource has free access at many locations across the country.

New York Foundation for the Arts / NYFA Source
NYFA Source is a free searchable database for individual artist funding nationwide.

For Organizations:

The Foundation Center
A subscription-based resource with information about philanthropic opportunities worldwide. This resource has free access at many libraries.

Grantspace
A subscription-based resource providing “easy-to-use, self-service tools and resources to help nonprofits worldwide become more viable grant applicants and build strong, sustainable organizations.” This resource has free access at many locations across the country.

GRANTWRITING TIPS

Writing your narrative
• Understand who will read your application—will it be a panel of peers or a program officer?
• Make sure you’ve talked to and set clear expectations with any partners you list in your application.
• Write the application assuming that the reader does not know your work. Provide enough information so that the panelists can evaluate your application directly matched to the review criteria of the particular grant program.
• Put yourself in the panelists’ position. Don’t overload your application with unnecessary information or verbose language. Often there are a lot of applications to consider and straightforward, everyday language will communicate your ideas best.
• Always strive to write as cleanly and clearly as possible using specific descriptions and concrete examples. There will always be plenty of room to add flair and style, but you need a solid clear base to build from.
• Use an active voice, it’s not “if… then…” it’s “with… will…”
• Have a friend or colleague review your application before you do the final draft.

Online applications
• Particularly if you are collaborating with others, you may want to draft your answers in a separate document that you can save. Transfer (cut and paste) your responses into the online application when your draft is complete, keeping in mind character/word limits.
• Transfer your answers and submit your application early. You may run into character space limitations, attachment requirements, or technical issues outside your control.

Preparing your attachments
• The attachments are as important as the grant narrative. Review the attachment requirements carefully at the start of your application to avoid surprises later.
• Make sure your budget and your narrative match.
• If you have questions about the application, contact the program officer for the grant. Program officers can answer questions about the application process and give insight into what the funder is looking for. Also, it’s their job.
• Meet the deadline. There are no extensions for application deadlines.

After you’ve submitted your grant
• Keep a copy of the completed applications and all attachments for your own files.
• If there is a public, open panel process, go listen to the deliberations. It will give you insight into how well people understand your proposal.
• If you receive the grant, be sure to send thank yous and updates. Funders love ‘success stories,’ so keep them appraised of what you are doing.
• If you don’t get the grant, solicit feedback after the fact but don’t take it personally. Your work is still good work—it just wasn’t the right work for this opportunity at this time.
FISCAL SPONSORSHIP

Many funders require 501(c)(3) federal nonprofit status for grant eligibility. In some cases, those funders are willing to accept applications from projects that are fiscally sponsored by another 501(c)(3) organization.

What is a fiscal sponsor?
A fiscal sponsor is an organization that agrees to accept, and be responsible for, tax-deductible contributions and charitable gifts on behalf of a project that does not have its own tax exemption. Using a fiscal sponsor, a non-exempt individual, project, event, or organization can take advantage of a lot of the benefits of a tax-exempt, nonprofit organization.

Is a fiscal sponsor the same thing as a fiscal agent?
Basically, yes. Fiscal sponsor is the more accurate and preferred term.

Who are fiscal sponsorships for?
Fiscal Sponsorship is a good solution for organizations (or certain individual projects or events) that only want to do a few small projects over a specified period of time, those who don’t have the time or staff for a lot of organizational administration, or those who need to be able to receive tax-deductible donations while they wait for 501(c)(3) nonprofit status approval from the IRS.

What does a fiscal sponsor do? Why are they valuable?
A fiscal sponsor:
• Accepts and safeguards charitable donations on behalf of a project
• Takes on legal liability for those funds
• Creates and maintains some accounting records for the project
• Qualifies the project for some grants and funding that would otherwise be inaccessible
• Brings experience to the project and may provide additional aids such as administrative services and/or strategic planning assistance

What does it cost?
Sponsoring organizations nearly always charge fees to cover administration costs. Often there is an annual or membership fee in the range of $100–200/year, plus a percentage (5–15%) of any income your fiscal sponsor manages.

Who can be a fiscal sponsor?
Legally, any existing tax-exempt nonprofit organization can act as a fiscal sponsor (including a church or library) but, because of the legal complexity and administration required, not all non-profits will do so. If you’re looking for a fiscal sponsor, it’s best to partner with an organization with which you have a good relationship, and/or one that has an existing fiscal sponsorship program.

What are precautions I should take?
Not every funder accepts applications from fiscally sponsored projects, so check with potential funders before you apply. Make sure your fiscal sponsor holds your funds separate from their own operating funds, and maintains reliable recording keeping. Determine in advance how you will request funds and how soon you will receive them. Secure a written agreement with your fiscal sponsor that clarifies who owns your intellectual property, and clearly outlines in what circumstances the relationship will end.
OUTLINES FOR OTHER TYPES OF GRANTS

Not all grants require the same elements. Here are two examples of grant types that have differing requirements.

Fellowship Grants

Fellowships are often merit based so they tend to focus on the artwork itself as proof that you deserve funding. Consider how the parts of the grant fit together to paint a complete picture and instill a sense of potential.

- Resume
- Artist statement or fellowship plan
- Work sample

Project Assistance Grants

Project grants are a more restricted funding source. This means greater detail is needed to ensure that you are meeting the funder’s requirements. The primary difference for project grants are subsections that ask you to detail specifics of how you are going to make the project happen, who else is involved, and what are your goals and tools.

- Project summary
- Timeline
- Subsections: History of participants and individual resumes, evaluation techniques, marketing approach, diversity, etc.
- Budget
FELLOWSHIP PLAN OUTLINE

Artist Statement
Write down a brief artist statement or insert the statement you wrote in Unit 3.

[Blank lines]

Artist's History
Have you been at this a while? Are you a new or emerging artist? What has been your path to get where you are now?

[Blank lines]

About the New Work
Write a few sentences about the new work you are planning to create.

[Blank lines]

Career Plan for the Next Year
Include one or two goals or opportunities that will arise from this grant and how you will tackle them.

[Blank lines]

How Will a Grant Impact the New Work and Your Career Plan for the Upcoming Year
What will be the impact of this fellowship on your career, short and long term?

[Blank lines]

ATTACHMENTS

To complete your fellowship plan, the funder will likely require:
• Budget
• Work samples
• Individual Resumes Brief bios and resumes of key players and partners in your project. Choose the appropriate resume depending on the responsibilities of the individuals and the requirement of the funder.
PROJECT ASSISTANCE PROPOSAL OUTLINE

Project Summary
Write a three-sentence description of your project, the timeline and the audience served. It is best to write this last after you have worked out the details and can synthesize the project in a simple and concise statement.

Marketing Plan
What are the networks, tools and messages you will use to promote this project? How will you ensure that the communities for who you are making this project and others will know that it's happening?

History of Program and Participants
Is this a new program or ongoing? Does it have roots in other activities that will show momentum or relevancy?

Project Evaluation
How will you measure the success of your project? Will you use quantitative information, qualitative information, or both? What tools will you have in place to capture this information at various stages of the project.

Timeline
Start with a general timeline that includes planning, building, launch, completion, and evaluation.

ATTACHMENTS

To complete your fellowship plan, the funder will likely require:
- Budget
- Work samples
- Individual Resumes  Brief bios and resumes of key players and partners in your project. Choose the appropriate resume depending on the responsibilities of the individuals and the requirement of the funder.
THE “SO WHAT” TEST

1. Pair up with a partner
2. Set a timer for 5 minutes
3. Describe your project to your partner in a few sentences

Your partner can only answer

“SO WHAT?”

Keep answering their question for as long as you can, or until the timer runs out. Now switch and give your partner the opportunity to describe their project. Remember your only response is

“SO WHAT?”

This exercise will help you dig beyond the explanation of what you want to do to why you want to do it and who will benefit and the impact the project will have.
Learn how to prepare a simple business plan, in arts-friendly language, to help you organize all the various aspects of your artistic practice and make informed business decisions.

Carla has been an avid textile artist and cook for over a decade and she’s decided that she wants to merge her two passions into her dream business, but she needs a plan. She has her pricing worked out and a general sense of her market, but she feels like she needs a master document to tie everything together and take action on her grand plan.

She also needs this plan to qualify for a local small business loan program.

Time to put it all together, Carla!

WHAT IS A BUSINESS PLAN, AND WHY WRITE ONE?

A plan is written down; otherwise it’s a dream.

Your art, your music, your band, your writing, or whatever you do, is your business; all the organization, promotion, and marketing that you do for yourself will help you succeed.

You and your art are distinct; your business plan should reflect your persona as an artist without distracting from the information you are presenting. While business plans are often used to obtain financing (from banks, investors, venture capitalists, and the like), they can also be used to attract key players. Key players might include prospective partners, collaborators, or employees, galleries, managers, agents, publishers, record labels, etc. It explains to your stakeholders (your spouse, children, parents, friends, etc.) what you want to achieve so that they can help you succeed.

A business plan outlines your professional goals. It explains how you will achieve those goals. It identifies the resources that you have and those you will need. It helps you focus your thinking, set realistic goals, and outline a plan for moving forward. Simply put, your business plan takes you from idea to action. There are many models for business plans; a little research online will inform your decisions about what to include in yours. A business plan shows that you have thought about your career, that you have a plan for achieving your goals and that you treat your career seriously. A business plan is your best defense against stupid decisions—and it’s a handy supporting document to take along to an IRS audit, should you ever need it for that.

So, why are you writing a business plan?

Who is the audience for this business plan?
THE PRODUCT/SERVICE TREE

An exercise in ideation.

Use this tool for creating the universe of ideas around your creative output. Using your main area of interest as the “trunk,” add “branches” designating ideas where your interest could be used in a business or as a source of income generation. You may go on to add “leaves” of specific clients, projects, or contacts you want to make.

The idea is to come up with as many potential ideas as possible. You can go back later and prune off branches that don’t interest you enough to pursue or aren’t practical for one reason or another. Put another way, the idea is to get as many fish in the net as possible, then you may sort through them keeping the ones you like and throwing back the ones you don’t.

If you compose electronic music, for example, your trunk would say “electronic music.” Your branches may be comprised of things such as “music for dance performance,” “music for commercials,” “customized ambient music for retail spaces,” “customized ambient music for restaurants,” “recording my own CD,” “specializing in public art installations,” etc. The leaves you might add to each of those branches include potential clients, people who should hear your stuff because they may be someone in a position to hire or refer you to someone else, specific compositions for your CD, and any small piece of information you want to keep track of.
DRAW YOUR TREE HERE
A well-prepared business plan does several critical things for you:

- It helps determine the feasibility of your business idea
- It identifies many key decisions you will have to make
- It helps you identify, collect, and organize critical information
- It helps you make informed decisions

Preparation for writing the business plan

Consider the reader and your objectives. You identified the reader on the first page; now articulate the objective of this business plan. For example, are you formulating a work plan, seeking funding, approaching collaborators, looking for sales outlets, etc? Write it here:

- Research all the elements of your business plan—gather information
- Develop an outline of your key sections
- Use realistic financial projections
- Write the business plan
- Make sure the tone is professional
- Use the third person, never the first person (i.e.: I or we)
- Check spelling and grammar
- Use an upbeat and positive tone
- Be honest and show how you arrived to your conclusions
- Get someone to read it over and provide feedback
- Remember this is your business!
- Once the full business plan is finished, you can cut and paste to customize marketing plans for various key audiences and investors.
- Also remember that you don’t need to include every section ever outlined in any business plan; it should suit your needs.

4 ways to crash your small business

1. Using your heart, not your head—your business is not a charity
2. Underestimating cash needs
3. Skipping the market research
4. Limiting your understanding of your business and where it’s going
“THE PROTO-BUSINESS PLAN” GATHERING THE BONES

Business Objective
What is this business all about? Write a description of the goods or services (or both) you are going to provide and who your intended audience(s) or users are. You ought to be able to clearly explain, in a couple of sentences, what you are doing. If you can’t maybe it’s because you’re doing too many things, you lack focus for some reason, or you are trying to start where you want to end up.

““You need to be able to articulate very clearly, and in what I call a very compelling manner, what you offer, why it is of benefit and why it is different from what is out there. If you can do that, you probably understand what you are doing.”
— Fred Glave, Washington, D.C.-based counselor with SCORE.

Timeline
What is going to happen, and in what order? Do you have a break-even point and when do you expect to reach it?
Budget
How much will all this cost? Get down the specifics about which outlays are for what.

Resumes and History
Who is involved with this business and what is their background?

Marketing Plan
Who is the audience for what you do/make. How will these goods/services reach that audience? How will potential users find you?
TRADITIONAL BUSINESS PLAN OUTLINE

Every business plan is unique. Don’t struggle with trying to make your plan “fit” into a generic mold—customize your plan to your specific business objectives. Be clear, concise, and detailed. Focus on the quality of the content, rather than the quantity of pages.

This business plan outline serves as a guide to how to format a traditional business plan. Each section contains questions intended to focus your attention on important aspects of the plan. Do not simply answer the questions; provide detailed information on each issue in narrative form. Finally, this outline can be altered to fit your preferences—sections may be rearranged, or even omitted, to fit your needs.

Once complete, the business plan should clearly identify the expectations you have for your business. Your plan should serve as a stand-alone document in which all aspects of your business are addressed. If you plan to present this plan to obtain financing, the completed plan needs to “tell the story” of your business to a potential lender without needing additional verbal explanation.

Lastly, review your plan regularly so you can make appropriate changes as plans and strategies change.

I. Cover Page
   Provide your company name, address, and contact information along with owner name(s) and contact information for primary contact.

II. Table of Contents
   Include a table of contents as a quick reference to topics addressed in your plan.
   I. Cover Page
   II. Table of Contents
   III. Executive Summary
   IV. Company Description
   V. Industry Analysis
   VI. Products & Services
   VII. Market Analysis
   VIII. Management & Organization
   IX. Operational Plan
   X. Financial Plan & Projections
   XI. Financing Proposal
   XII. Supporting Documents

III. Executive Summary
   Write This Last! Summarize your business plan in two pages or less. Be enthusiastic and concise. Include business goals, objectives, and monetary amount desired if applying for a loan.

IV. Company Description
   What does your company do? Give a brief company history. Include a description of your products and services. Who are your customers? Describe your business location and facilities. What are your key strengths? List the owners and the legal structure. Why did you choose this type of structure? What, if any, are the planned changes for the company? Describe the goals and objectives of the company.
V. Industry Analysis

What are the characteristics of your industry? State whether it is growing/declining/changing. What is the size of your market? Research your share of the market. Is it growing? Are more firms entering the industry and becoming increasingly competitive? List any current barriers to entry (e.g. licensing, permits). List strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats of the industry/firm.

VI. Products & Services

List and describe your products (or services). What are your distribution channels? Include details concerning your competitive advantage. Provide the pricing structure for your products/services.

VII. Market Analysis

Use statistics, demographic research, and industry information where appropriate. Be as specific as possible. Remember to cite your sources.

Product Describe the product or service from your customer’s point of view. What do customers like and dislike about your products/services? What services are offered as part of the product (delivery, service, warranty, support, and/or refund offers)?

Customers Describe your customers, their characteristics, and location. Why do they trade with you? What do they like about your company?

Competition List major competitors—describe size, location, and reputation. Compare your goods and services with theirs. What are their major advantages? What are yours? What value do you bring to customers that competitors do not?

Location Include your location needs. What kind of space do you require? Is it leased or owned? Why is the area desirable? Why is the building desirable? Is it easily accessible? Is the street lighting adequate? Research market shifts or demographic shifts when choosing your location.

Marketing Strategy Explain your pricing policy. How do you promote, advertise and sell? How do you distribute or deliver your products/services? What customer services will you offer?

Customer Demand Using the information obtained in the previous sections of the marketing plan, calculate a forecast for demand for your product/service. How many customers do you plan to have in one year? Five years?

VIII. Management & Organization

Who has management responsibilities? Include the resumes of key managers as supporting documents. Include position descriptions for all key employees. List important advisors, such as attorneys, accountants, bankers, your insurance agent, and advisory board members or board of directors. Include estimated financial costs or fees and the services expected.

IX. Operational Plan

Production/Service Discuss methods of production or service delivery, product or service development, quality control, inventory control.

Credit Policies What is your credit policy? Do/will you sell on credit? What are the terms? Explain how you perform a credit check. What are your collection policies?

Personnel How many employees are required? What skills are necessary? Define the pay and personnel policies. Are there any position descriptions and/or training programs?

Equipment, Technology, & Inventory How much inventory is needed? What is its value? Why is that amount of inventory appropriate for your business and location? List your major suppliers and discuss any terms they extend to your business. What equipment and technology is necessary to operate the business?

Legal Research and understand all legal issues. (Licensing, bonding, permits, insurance, zoning, government regulations, patents, trademarks, copyrights, etc.)

Exit Strategy Describe exit strategies should the firm perform lower than expectations (personal or business). Will inventory be liquidated? Will you close the business or sell?
X. Financial Plan & Projections

The financial plan provides the numbers that correspond to your written plan. Historical and/or projected figures should be included. In addition, you should always include a narrative explaining the assumptions you used to arrive at the dollar value of sales, expenses, etc. You must demonstrate that your numbers are reasonable. Detailed financial information is critical to the business planning process.

Start-up Expenses and Capital Carefully calculate and categorize all start-up expenses including inventory, rent, etc. For example, what amount will be needed for renovations and equipment? Remember to include any cash you may need to operate and pay bills until the business begins generating cash. Provide a detailed list of equipment, furniture, and/or fixtures to be purchased. Include actual price quotes for larger items.

Financial History If yours is an existing firm, include the income statements, balance sheets and/or tax returns for the past three years.

Profit and Loss Projection (Income Statement) Include a monthly profit and loss projection covering at least 12 months of business operation. Be sure to provide a written explanation of the assumptions used to develop your projections.

Cash Flow Projection Include a monthly cash flow projection for at least 12 months of business operation. The cash flow projection differs from the profit and loss statement. Cash flow statements illustrate how much and when cash flows in and out of your business. Be sure to provide a written explanation of assumptions used to develop your projections.

Projected Balance Sheet Your plan should include a projected balance sheet showing assets (things owned), liabilities (debts) and owner’s equity. If yours is a start-up business, the balance sheet should show your financial position on opening day.

XI. Financing Proposal

Explain how you intend to obtain capital and the amount required. What are your desired terms? How do you plan to utilize the funds? Include any collateral you have available. What is the owner’s equity/cash contribution?

XII. Supporting Documents

Any document referred to within the plan but not included in body, such as:

- Personal resumes for owners and management
- Letters of reference
- Personal financial statements from all principals
- Contracts and/or letters of intent from suppliers and customers
- Copies of leases, licenses, permits, or any other legal documents
Congratulations! You did it!
